ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We are especially grateful to the following...

The affiliated centers of the Kenan Institute for providing opportunities for student learning and professional development. These include the Center for Sustainability, CREATE, Rethinc. Labs, Center for the Business of Health, Entrepreneurship Center, Leonard W. Wood Center for Real Estate Studies, UNC Tax Center, Institute for Private Capital, and Urban Investment Strategies Center.

Mike and Helen Norona for their family's dedication and generous support of the Kenan Scholars program. Mike generously provides guidance and advice and extends his influential networks and connections to our scholars. Known for her tasty muffins, Helen's support of Muffins with Mike has become a mainstay and highly sought after treat of the program.

Thomas S. Kenan III, the Kenan Family, and Dan Drake for their unwavering commitment to the fulfillment of Frank Kenan's vision that the Kenan Institute of Private Enterprise be a place of learning that brings together business leaders, academic researchers, and policymakers to help solve some of societies most complex challenges. And that future generations of business leaders are committed to the public good.

Dr. Lingmei Howell for her 30 years of dedicated service to the Kenan Institute of Private Enterprise. During the last 15 of those years, Lingmei garnered a devoted cadre of students who love her and speak highly of her warmth and devotion. Her work to refashion the Kenan Scholars program is respected and well regarded. Thank you, Lingmei.

Thank you to our generous and thoughtful donors and the numerous greathearted staff and friends of the Kenan Scholars Program.
